

Success of AIChE student chapter at HKUST

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AIChE), one of the largest professional organization for chemical engineers, established a student chapter at HKUST last year. For the past eight months, the chapter has been very active organizing various activities such as plant visits, and experience sharing on study and research. More details can be found at <https://www.facebook.com/aiche.hkust>.

The AIChE student chapter aims to work closely with CBME Students Society to enhance outreach efforts, improve campus life, and create opportunities for interns and job placement for students.
